About the Urban Institute

The Urban Institute is a nonprofit policy research organization in Washington, DC founded in 1968. To promote sound social policy and public debate on national priorities, the Urban Institute gathers and analyzes data, conducts policy research, evaluates programs and services, and educates Americans on critical issues and trends.

The Center on Nonprofits and Philanthropy was established in 1996 to explore the role and impact of nonprofit organizations in democratic societies. The Center is dedicated to enlarging the repository of high-quality data on nonprofit organizations. Toward this end, its statistical arm, the National Center for Charitable Statistics (NCCS), collects, refines, and supplements information from the Internal Revenue Service and other sources. NCCS's mission is to build compatible national, state, and regional databases and to develop uniform standards and methods for reporting on the activities on charitable organizations.

Disclaimer

The National Taxonomy of Exempt Entities - Core Codes System is a classification tool used to categorize private nonprofit organizations already recognized as tax exempt by the Internal Revenue Service in accordance with the U.S. Internal Revenue Code. No part of this document should be construed by any party as justification for obtaining or maintaining exempt status.

Introducing NTEE and NTEE-CC

National Taxonomy of Exempt Entities (NTEE)

Charitable organizations have played a critical role in this country since it was founded. However, obtaining meaningful information about a group of organizations so diverse yet so vital to society becomes impossible without a classification system that groups similar entities by purpose, type, or major function. The National Taxonomy of Exempt Entities (NTEE) offers a definitive classification system for nonprofit organizations recognized as tax exempt under the Internal Revenue Code. These charitable organizations are exempt from federal taxes because of their religious, educational, scientific, and public purposes. The broad range of their activities includes health, human services, arts and culture, education, research, and advocacy. The use of NTEE is key to illuminating the diversity of the nonprofit sector.

The NTEE was developed by NCCS during the 1980's with the collaboration of major nonprofit organizations. According to Russy D. Sumariwalla, one of the principal developers of the system, the use of such a system:

- facilitates the collection, tabulation, presentation, and analysis of data by the types of organizations and their activities;

- promotes uniformity and comparability in the presentation of statistical and other data collected by various public and private agencies; and

- provides better quality information as the basis for public policy debate and decision-making for the nonprofit sector and for society at large.

National Taxonomy of Exempt Entities (NTEE) – Core Codes

The IRS, which classifies organizations based on descriptive data in the organization application for recognition of tax-exempt status, requested a simplified version of the NTEE to not only increase efficiency but also provide a better fit into the North American Industry Classification System (NAICS), the new federal government economic classification system that replaced the Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) codes in 1999.

The National Taxonomy of Exempt Entities - Core Codes (NTEE-CC) was created to meet this challenge. Designed by a team of experts, the new NTEE-CC now includes approximately two-thirds, or about 400, of the 645 categories in the original NTEE. Though the majority of the differences in the NTEE-CC are a result of collapsing lesser-used codes, improvements were also included. With its ease of use and consistent hierarchical logic, the new NTEE-CC will serve as the best instrument for tax-exempt status determination, NAICS linkage, and nonprofit organizational classification.

About This Manual

Who Needs the NTEE-CC

The NTEE provides a standardized language for describing the vast range of nonprofit organizations. It is used at every stage of the process of defining and collecting statistics, analyzing subsector trends, grants classification and extracting practical information for donors and grantmakers.

Data Collection

The hierarchical coding structure of the NTEE is used to classify organizations in the nation's largest database on U.S. nonprofit organizations created by NCCS, GuideStar, and the IRS. The IRS Statistics of Income (SOI) program also uses the NTEE for its research databases.

Research

Researchers use the NTEE to identify subsectors for further analysis of capacities and emerging trends. Such analysis guides policy discussions on the national, state, and local levels, and provides an understanding of the vital work of nonprofit organizations.

Grants Classification

Although the NTEE was originally designed to classify types of organizations, it has been used successfully by the Foundation Center, many grantmaking foundations, nonprofit consultants, and commercial grants management software developers to classify grants, as well as by the nonprofit organizations receiving them.

Deciphering the NTEE-CC

The NTEE-CC is an organizational classification system arranged in 26 major groups under 10 basic divisions. Its hierarchical structure allows users to drill down to desired levels of specificity. Groupings of terms outside of the set hierarchy, called subject clusters, help aggregate related organizations that cross hierarchical divisions.

Organization of the NTEE-CC

The NTEE-CC classification system has three levels: major groups, decile level groups, and centile level groups. Codes from the decile and centile levels are sometimes referred to as “purpose codes.” Organizations that exist across all or most of the 26 major groups are treated separately and are given what is known as “common codes.” “99” codes are placeholders assigned to organizations when a more specific NTEE classification cannot be determined.

The NTEE-CC uses a mixed notation numbering system as follows:

Major Groups (1 st Digit)	Letter
Decile Level Codes (2 nd Digit)	Number
Centile Level Codes (3 rd Digit)	Number (or, infrequently, a letter)
Common Codes (2 nd -4 th Digits)	Number

The set up of the NTEE-CC system allows for many more codes than are currently being used, to allow for future expansion, if needed.

Major Groups

The 26 major groups, designated as A-Z, represent broad subsectors, such as health, education, and youth development in the universe of nonprofit organizations.

Decile Level Groups

At the second-digit level, the major groups are further subdivided by specific activity areas into 140 decile codes. For example, C Environment, includes six decile level groups:

- C Environment
- C20 Pollution Abatement & Control
- C30 Natural Resources Conservation & Preservation
- C40 Botanical, Horticultural & Landscape Services
- C50 Environmental Beautification
- C60 Environmental Education
- C99 Environment Not Elsewhere Classified (N.E.C.)

Centile Level Groups

At the third-digit level, the system is expanded by specific types of organizations into 291 centile codes. For example, decile code C30 Natural Resources Conservation & Protection, is divided into 4 centile codes:

- C30 Natural Resources Conservation & Preservation
- C32 Water Resources, Wetlands Conservation & Management
- C34 Land Resources Conservation
- C35 Energy Resources Conservation & Development
- C36 Forest Conservation

Common Codes

Common codes represent activities of organizations, such as research, fundraising, and technical assistance, which are common to all major groups. For example, “05” is the common code for Research Institutes with B05 representing Educational Research, C05 Environmental Research, etc. There are currently seven common codes in use applied to every major group in the same manner. As an example, for environmental organizations they are:

- C01 Environmental Alliances & Advocacy
- C02 Environmental Management & Technical Assistance
- C03 Environmental Professional Societies & Associations
- C05 Environmental Research Institutes & Public Policy Analysis
- C11 Environmental Single Organization Support
- C12 Environmental Fund Raising & Fund Distribution
- C19 Environmental Support Not Classified Elsewhere (N.E.C.)

Custom Data Sets

The National Center for Charitable Statistics (NCCS) at the Center for Nonprofits and Philanthropy (CNP) is the national repository of data on the nonprofit sector in the United States. Working closely with the IRS and other government agencies, private sector service organizations, and the scholarly community, NCCS builds compatible national, state, and regional databases and develops uniform standards for reporting on the activities of charitable organizations.

CNP staff, in conjunction with NCCS, will be producing custom research databases based on NTEE-CC classifications on the different nonprofit subsectors. Due to the limitation of assigning single NTEE-CC codes to organizations that can easily be classified with more than one major group designation, some subsectors, such as the International subsector, benefit from custom coding. For availability and assistance in creating custom data sets contact NCCS at 866-518-3874.

Getting Started Using the NTEE Codes

With a clearer understanding of the structure and the concepts of the NTEE-CC, it is time to bridge the gap between theory and application. Although organization classification may be an art not a science, consistency in the use of the codes is the key to their usefulness.

Using the NTEE-CC depends on the questions one is asking. Interested in housing developments for low-income seniors? One need only to refer to one code. Interested in the housing industry as a whole? Then an examination of the Housing major group is required. The hierarchical structure of the NTEE-CC is perfect for going from general to more specific categories and then back again. Sub-sector breakdowns are the most common method for using the system.

Tools of the Trade

The NCCS Web Site

The NCCS web site is a virtual one-stop-shop for learning how to code.

Sources of Data on Charities

IRS Application Forms

Organizations seeking recognition of exemption from federal income tax must use specific application forms; either IRS Form 1023 used by organizations applying for 501(c)(3) status or IRS Form 1024, for all others. Each application for exemption must be accompanied by an organization’s organizing documents, that is, Articles of Incorporation, Articles of Association, Constitution, or other enabling document; current bylaws; and full descriptions of the purposes and activities, either actual or proposed of the organization. Although clearly a treasure trove of information, copies of IRS Forms 1023 and 1024 are not in the public domain and are not readily available.

IRS Forms 990:

These financial disclosure forms filed by charities with the Internal Revenue Service provide specific information on a charity's revenues, expenses, executive salaries, board members, programs and activities. Program descriptions and Statement of Organization Purpose contained on the forms are often all one needs to successfully determine an organization’s correct NTEE classification. You can find them on the NCCS website at <http://nccsdataweb.urban.org/PubApps/990search.php>.

GuideStar:

The GuideStar web site at <http://www.guidestar.org> provides access to IRS Forms 990 as well as additional information supplied by the organizations.

Organization Web Sites:

When available, links to the nonprofit organizations' web sites offer even more valuable information including mission statements and activities.

Putting It All Together

It is time to start coding. This section of the desk reference will present sample organizations and walk through the steps needed to classify them. Along the way, strategies for classifying organizations as well as common pitfalls will be discussed.

Private Foundations:

It might seem like an odd way to start, but the first question to ask is whether or not an organization is a private foundation. Private foundations are treated differently in the coding system than other types of nonprofits. A foundation is an entity with a principal purpose of making grants to unrelated organizations or institutions or to individuals for scientific, educational, cultural, religious, or other charitable purposes. This broad definition encompasses two foundation types: private foundations and public foundations. The major distinguishing characteristic of a private foundation is that most of its funds come from one source, whether an individual, a family, or a corporation.

The best way to identify private foundations is to refer to the formal determination made by the Internal Revenue Service. All private foundations must file the Form 990-PF. Check the NCCS web site at <http://nccs.urban.org/990/> for access to these forms.

If the organization is a private foundation, then it should be coded only with codes T20, T21, T22, or T23. Refer to the NCCS web site or to the last section headed "Code Definitions and 3-digit NAICS References" of this document for definitions of these codes and detailed descriptions on which code to use.

For the purposes of this reference book, the remaining examples will not include any additional private foundations.

Focus on Organizational Type

Rotary International and Kiwanis International highlight the NTEE-CC approach to classifying an organization. While both of these organizations are often thought of by the general public as “service clubs” (S80), their missions are different.

Rotary is an organization of business and professional leaders united worldwide who provide humanitarian service, encourage high ethical standards in all vocations, and help build goodwill and peace in the world.

Kiwanis is a thriving organization of service and community-minded individuals who support children and young adults around the world.

NTEE-CC should capture, first and foremost, what an organization is and not what it does. Thus, service clubs such as Rotary and Kiwanis should be coded in the S80 grouping as Service Clubs.

Institutional Purpose vs. Activities

Next we’ll code an organization called “North Branch Homeless, Inc.” As the organization has something to do with serving the homeless, a quick check for the keyword “homeless” on the NCCS NTEE-CC Keyword Browser yields four targeted NTEE-CC codes to narrow the search:

- D20 Animal Protection & Welfare
- K35 Soup Kitchens
- L41 Homeless Shelters
- P85 Homeless Centers

At this point, if unfamiliar with any of the codes, or deem any to be irrelevant (D20 Animal Protection & Welfare), review their definitions and then take a closer look at the organization’s institutional purpose. The key to coding with the NTEE-CC is understanding that the focus is on the purpose of the organization, rather than its activity, although they are often related. A hospital provides health care. An elementary school provides education.

Sometimes, the connection is not as direct. A YMCA should be coded as a P27, even though it often provides recreation (Major Group N); it may also provide adult education (Major Group B); and can even provide HIV/AIDS awareness and prevention programs (Major Group G). A homeless shelter (L41) provides a temporary place to stay for people who have no permanent housing, but should not be coded as a soup kitchen (K35), even if it offers a food program.

The information on the IRS Form 990 of “North Branch Homeless, Inc.” below reveals that the organization is a homeless shelter and should be coded accordingly. Even though “North Branch Homeless, Inc.” provides psychological counseling and meals, its institutional purpose is consistent with the Homeless Shelters definition and should be coded L41.

to fundraising $ _____

If "Yes," enter (i) the aggregate amount of these joint costs $ _____, (ii) the amount allocated to management and general $ _____, and (iii) the amount allocated to program services $ _____, and (iv) the amount allocated to fundraising $ _____

Part III. Statement of Program Service Accomplishments

What is the organization's primary exempt purpose? To provide shelter for homeless women

All organizations must describe their exempt purpose achievements in a clear and concise manner. State the number of clients served, publications issued, etc. Discuss achievements that are not measurable. (Section 501(c)(3) & (4) organizations & section 4947(a)(1) nonexempt charitable trusts must also enter the amount of grants & allocations to others.)

Program Service Expenses (Required for 990 (e)(2) and (4) organizations and 990-B(1) trusts, but optional for others.)
a Calvary Shelter Program Provides transitional shelter for homeless women throughout the year (Grants and allocations $ 0 )	272,989
b Transitional Living Services Provides psychiatric counseling to the residents and also teaches the basic skills for independent living (Grants and allocations $ 0 )	94,599
c Dinner Program Provides homeless women with dinner seven nights a week (Grants and allocations $ 0 )	45,214
d Sister Circle Program Provides permanent housing and supportive services for up to ten women at any one time having HIV/AIDS and a history of substance abuse (Grants and allocations $ 0 )	25,614
e Other program services Pathways (Grants and allocations $ 0 )	1,140
f Total of Program Service Expenses (should equal line 46, column (B), program services)	439,556

BAA TECA0102 09/2000 Form 990 (2000)

Organizations that can be coded in multiple Major Groups:

Sometimes organizations do not have easily coded institutional purposes. For example, “Play Ball” offers scholarships to promising high school soccer players and runs soccer skills clinics to neighborhood children. Is “Play Ball” a scholarship organization (B82) or a soccer club (N64)? At this point, the more information available, the easier the coding. The IRS Forms 1023/24 or Forms 990 can give very specific information about the programmatic priorities of an organization. In this case, as both the scholarship program and the skills clinic program receive relatively equal expense allocations, but as the scholarship component is listed first on the organization’s Form 990, “Play Ball” should be coded as a B82.

NTEE-CC Coding Tip

Avoid coding based only on the name of the organization. “Wee Care for Tots” is probably a day care center, but “The Blue Flower Center” is not a garden club, as one might assume, but rather a nonprofit arts organization. Check the organization’s mission statement as a starting point.

Voluntary Health Organization & Medical Research

Coding voluntary health organizations and organizations involved in medical research can sometimes be challenging because the codes in Major Group G – Diseases, Disorders, Medical Disciplines, and Major Group H – Medical Research are not mutually exclusive. Does an organization that is active in the prevention or treatment of lung cancer belong in G30 – Cancer or in G45 – Lung Disease? Similarly, should organizations that conduct research on Parkinson’s Disease be classified as an H50 Nerve, Muscle, Bone Research organization or as an H80 – Specifically Named Disease Research organization?

The NTEE-CC Keyword Browser located on the NCCS website has extensive keywords to help users pinpoint the correct code. To ensure consistent coding, follow the “Classification Rules” sub-section of this document.

Use of Common Codes

While environmental research organizations are coded as C05, such research can cover a lot of issues—from global warming patterns to renewable energy resources to the deforestation of the Amazon River Basin. How can one distinguish between all the possible avenues for research within the environmental subsector? NTEE-CC allows such distinctions to be made by attaching a fourth digit taken from the decile level of a major group. Follow the examples below to see how this is done.

Solid Waste Management R&D Inc. NTEE-CC Code C052

C05 (environmental research institutes & public policy analysis)

C20 (pollution abatement & control)

C052

Save our Forests Now! NTEE-CC Code C013

C01 (alliances & advocacy)

C30 (natural resources conservation & protection)

C013

The Wilderness Fund NTEE-CC Code C113

C11 (single organization support)

C30 (natural resources conservation & protection)

C113

Ready, Set, Code

You are now ready to become expert users and coders of the NTEE-CC. The resources for learning about the classification system and for researching an organization have been laid out. Below are the classification rules and guides for ready reference.

Classification Rules

General Rules

1. Code an organization based first on its institutional purpose. If this is not possible, code based on the major programmatic activities of the organization.
2. Code an organization to the most specific code available. For example, code day care centers as P33 and not P30.
3. If an organization's purpose encompasses multiple activities within a hierarchical grouping, code to the most appropriate level. For example, code multipurpose children's welfare organizations as P30 and not P31, P32, or P33.
4. Use "99" codes within major groups when subsectors can be identified but more specific designations cannot be determined. Use Z99 when the nature of the organization is undeterminable or an appropriate code is not available.
5. If an organization's programs are split evenly between two major groups, code to the first subsector listed.
6. If an organization's programs are dispersed throughout Major Groups I-P, encompassing the broad human services sector, code from major group P Human Services.
7. If an organization's programs are dispersed throughout the Housing, Employment, and Community Improvement major groups, code from the Community Improvement major group.
8. In cases where purpose codes and common codes are interchangeable, for instance, S025 Management & Technical Assistance – Nonprofit Management and S50 Nonprofit Management, code with the purpose code (S50).

Rules for Specific Codes

9. Use A20, I20, J20, L20, P20, S20, U20, or V20, to code multipurpose organizations within those specific major groups.
10. Use B60 Adult Education for general adult education and use common code 02 Management & Technical Assistance within an appropriate major group for professional continuing education.

The following section provides detailed definitions, examples and scope notes for every code in the NTEE-CC system. The right column also includes the North American Industrial Classification System (NAICS) code, the classification system developed by the U.S., Canadian and Mexican governments for tracking and analyzing economic activity throughout their economies. (In the U.S., for example, the Census Bureau's Economic Census, conducted every five years, provides detailed information on the number of entities and revenues of for-profit and nonprofit organizations in each NAICS code. The U.S. Census Bureau provides more detailed information on the NAICS system.
